TWENTY-SECOND SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME (B)

First Reading: Deut 4:1-2,6-8 Second Reading: Ja 1:17-18, 21-22,27 Gospel: Mk 7:1-8,14-15,21-23
29th August 2021

There is a story about a Master who one day put the following question to some of his disciples: "What is the thing that one should avoid most in life?"

'An evil eye,' said the first.

'An treacherous friend,' said the second.

'A bad neighbour,' said the third.

'A bad heart,' said the fourth.

The Master liked the last answer best, because it included all the others. Then he said:

'And what is the most desirable thing to strive for in life?'

'A good eye,' said the first.

'A good friend,' said the second.

'A good neighbour,' said the third.

'A good heart,' said the fourth.

The Master liked the last answer best, because it included all the others. We must strive for cleanness of heart. Total purity of heart is unattainable here on earth. It is a struggle that will always go on. A pure heart is not the same as an empty heart. A heart that is full of love is a pure and healthy heart.
